

Secretive 200 East 79th Street Now Officially On the Market

By Sara Polsky Oct 9, 2012, 3:55pm EDT

Location: Third Avenue and East 79th Street

Size: 39 units

Prices: $2,855,000 to more than $14 million

Developer/Owner: Skyline Developers

Architect: Cetra/Ruddy

Sales & Marketing: Stribling

The apartment building going up at 200 East 79th Street has been cagey about design, pricing, and on-market date, letting passersby see only a mini model of the building above its sidewalk shed. But now?now?all is revealed! The building is officially for sale, and its full website is live. That website lists eight units for sale, ranging in price from $2.855 million for a 3BR, 3.5BA to $7.35 million for a 5BR, 5.5BA, and a press release tells us prices will go all the way up to more than $14 million. The finishes, including walnut cabinet and oak floors, aim for a classic aesthetic?or, in the words of the designbabble "old world elegance executed in a modern vernacular."

There's a residents' lounge, a terrace with a landscaped pergola, a gym, and a court "with an adjustable basketball hoop, ping pong, ballet barre and yoga area." Sounds kinda fun! Renderings of units and amenities, plus some floorplans, can be found in the gallery above.